

PEACHES WILL BE COSTLY.

INVESTIGATION SHOWS THAT THE CROP IS SERIOUSLY DAMAGED.

PRICES OF CANNED FRUIT HAVE BEEN ADVANCED AND MAY GO STILL HIGHER—A BIG YIELD IN CALIFORNIA.

The wholesale price of canned fruits has advanced about 25 per cent on cheap grades and a little less than 10 per cent on the better qualities. In this city the use is limited to the low grades, which are principally pie peaches, known in the fruit trade as "seconds," and are packed without syrup, and consumed chiefly in the West and South. The main cause assigned for the advance in the price of the fruit is the damage to the crop in the latter part of March, which blighted the buds and blossoms of the fruit trees, which had come out unusually early on account of the unseasonably warm weather which prevailed earlier in that month. Regarding the injury to the fruit trees, the "Fruit Trade Journal," which is a reliable authority, reports the other day some correspondents who have been inspecting the fruit districts. Their reports state that in Florida little damage was done by the cold wave. In Savannah, Charleston and Newberne, S. C., the crop of peaches was utterly ruined, while in Virginia and the lower counties of the Eastern Shore of Maryland the crop was damaged from 60 to 75 per cent, and in districts near Baltimore about 25 per cent.

THE STRAWBERRY AND PEACH CROPS.

The strawberry crop of the lower counties of the Eastern Shore of Maryland and the fruit-growing sections of Virginia was seriously injured. The correspondents of the "Fruit Trade Journal" at Norfolk, the strawberry crop had been injured 75 per cent, and in other parts of Virginia and Lower Maryland about 50 per cent. The average this year, however, is so much larger than ever before that notwithstanding the extensive damage, the crop is expected to be as large as a full crop of five or six years ago. Regarding the peach crop of Delaware and Maryland there seems to be about half a crop of buds without the cold and rain and are still living, while others assert that all the buds and blossoms in their orchards were destroyed. The correspondents, however, after careful inquiry and personal inspection, estimate that in Delaware and Maryland the crop is about 25 per cent, and in Southern and Central Maryland about 50 per cent. The peach buds are now in the state of being totally ruined, but it is feared that many of the buds now alive have been so injured that they will fall off before attaining maturity. In Western Maryland and Pennsylvania the peach buds are reported to have been almost entirely destroyed, and fruit dealers have no expectation of receiving any supply whatever from that source.

Jack's reports are confirmed by E. S. Judge, secretary of the National Canned Goods Association, who has just visited the same peach-growing centers, and who opened many blossoms which seemed on external examination to be uninjured, but which, when opened, were found to be ruined, and therefore the crop will be a failure.

VIEWS OF LEADING CANNED-FRUIT MEN.

Several of the leading wholesale dealers in canned fruit and groceries were called upon by a reporter yesterday and asked for their views on the damage to the peach crop. Two of the wholesale grocers frequently have 100,000 cases of canned fruit in stock, which is equal to the entire quantity now held by the canned-fruit dealers in Baltimore, as estimated by Secretary Judge. The men whom the reporter saw all expressed similar views, of which the following is a summary: The canned-fruit market fluctuates like the market for any other commodity. Prices are now low for the year, and even with the present advance they are by no means up to normal figures. The damage to the peach crop is a serious blow to the industry, but it is not a disaster. The market for canned fruit is large and steady, and the industry is well equipped to meet the demand. The damage to the peach crop is a serious blow to the industry, but it is not a disaster. CALIFORNIA CANNED FRUIT.

The same man, who visited California about a month ago, said that he had discovered that the stock of canned fruit on hand on the Pacific Coast was unusually small, and that others had estimated it to be large. Buyers had been running on small stocks for a long time, on account of the prolonged tightness of the money market, and when the demand for canned fruit was suddenly increased, the market was found to be unusually small, as the packers, who had hitherto relied on their local banks to carry them, were unable to do so. Long Branch, N. They have ruined lawns, shattered roadways, broken-down buildings and such like incidentals of the ravages of the sea in many places to repair.

In some portions of the beach the outlook seems gloomy indeed for any material improvement to the bluff in this much-neglected resort. The college bears the name of the late A. W. Rollins, of Chicago, a most liberal benefactor to the institution. It occupies a prominent position among the new institutions of learning. It upholds the New-England tradition of scholarship, and is the only institution of the kind in the South, and more than half its students are of Southern birth.

BITTERNESS AGAINST THE EAST.

EVEN NEW-YORK DEMOCRATS SUPPLIED AT THE FEELING OF SOUTHERN AND SOUTHWESTERN CONGRESSMEN.

Recent reports brought here from Washington by intelligent citizens allied to both the Republican and Democratic parties have represented the Southern sentiment among representatives of the South as a feeling of bitterness, which is attracting much of the national attention and causing much of the trouble at the national capital. Two prominent New-Yorkers, both of whom are Democrats, who spent some days at Washington within the last fortnight, have been telling friends that they were amazed at the feeling of hostility which has been kindled there against Southern men and Southern institutions. Much of this feeling is said to be centered against New York and its citizens.

CRUSHED UNDER A TROLLEY CAR.

A TEN-YEAR-OLD BROOKLYN BOY KILLED—A MOTORMAN AND CONDUCTOR ARRESTED.

Another fatal trolley accident, the first in several weeks, occurred Saturday evening in Brooklyn. A boy ten years old, named Theodore Cox, No. 322 Ninth-avenue, was instantly killed at Prospect and Fifth-avenue. A crowd of excited spectators gathered about the trolley, and the conductor, James Corbett, of No. 285 Twentieth-avenue, threatened to lynch him. The car was No. 18, of the Atlantic Avenue Railroad Company, on its way to the Greenwood terminal. As it crossed Prospect-avenue, the boy ran in front of the car and the motorman was unable to stop it. The car crushed the boy's body until it was almost unrecognizable. The mangled body could be taken from the car only after a long and painful effort. A great crowd of people gathered in a short time, and when they saw the hideous work of the car of death, the trolley was becoming very hot.
